Continuing Care Retirement Community: Continuing Care Retirement Communities, (CCRCs), are sometimes called life care communities. Entering one is usually a once-in-a-lifetime choice and that's the appeal. Many have large campuses that include separate housing for those who live very independently, assisted living facilities that offer more support, and nursing homes for those needing skilled nursing care. Residents move from one housing choice to another as their needs change.

Guide to Special Needs Housing in Prince William County, VA

Assisted Living: A facility that provides a combination of housing and personalized health care in a professionally managed group-setting designed to respond to the individual needs of persons who require assistance with activities of daily living. The facility provides care to residents who cannot live independently, but who do not require 24-hour nursing care. Residents pay monthly rent, although in some cases this may need to be supplemented by fees-for-service.
