New Horizons School-Based Services provide a range of therapeutic services to students on site at area public high schools to address their own or family substance abuse issues and co-occurring mental health issues. Services include:

- prevention and outpatient services
- individual and group therapy
- case management to link students and families with community resources
- collaboration with school staff, parents, social workers, probation officers, professionals and community resources
- crisis intervention for emergencies at school related to substance abuse and co-occurring disorders
- critical incident debriefings for school-related deaths and other critical incidents
- presentations and trainings on substance abuse and related issues for students, parents and professionals
- reentry services for students returning from substance abuse and co-occurring disorders residential programs